SECWÉPEMC WINTER GATHERING 2017

ABOUT THE WINTER SEASONAL GATHERING

We come together once again to embrace the ways of our ancestors and celebrate the seasons of change. Pelltetéqem (crossing over month) we are told is a scared time of storytelling, knowledge sharing, and celebrating our connections with each other and the land.

The Seasonal Gathering initiative emerged as a recommendation from the 2016 governance engagement efforts. This will be the third gathering we have held this year; the first was at Pípsell (Jacko Lake) and the second in Sts’gil’xtn (Revelstoke). These gatherings provide opportunities to share our knowledge with each other and engage in important discussion about the management of our territory and sovereignty of our Nation.

Tk’emlúps translated into English means “where the rivers meet” and has been a meeting place for the Secwepemc people for centuries. We hope you enjoy your time here in Tk’emlúps and raise our hands to thank the community for hosting the Secwépemc Winter Gathering 2017.

Weytk-p,

Our Secwépemc Ancestors told us the importance of remaining true to our ways of being, and the risk of imitating other’s ways in the stseptékwll (oral tellings) of Sk’lep (Coyote) and his hosts. In this telling, the Ancestors warn of the consequences of copying others through Coyote’s experiences with Skia’uzkelesti’mt (Fat-man), Stiauzka’instimt (Fish-Oil man), and Skala’uztimt (Beaver man). In each instance, Sk’lep places himself in jeopardy and is harmed when imitating others. In his final attempt to steal the ways of Tsalasti’mt (Kingfisher man) Sk’lep plunges to his death and is luckily revived by Kingfisher. These are the lessons from the Secwépemc Ancestors warning us of copying or imitating other’s ways.

The Secwépemc Winter Gathering, Pelltetéq’em (Crossing over month), is the first four-day gathering which will be held throughout SecwépemcÚlecw. These Secwépemc gatherings will be held during the changing seasons in the four directions of the Secwépemc Nation. We do this to honour, recognize and respect the importance of our Secwépemc ways of being.

We have a deep and extensive connection to SecwépemcÚlecw. The connection is embedded and celebrated in our language, oral histories, culture and laws. Tsq’ey’ ri7 mell ell, tsq’ey’ ne mítkye-kt te m-sq’7est.s (It is written and it has always been there in our blood). Our ancestral Secwépemc homefires (communities) survived the dark history of colonization and intentional cultural genocide. We honour and recognize the cultural knowledge kept collectively by the Ķwséltkten (families) of our ancestral homefires. It is from the deep beds of coals of our Secwépemc ancestral homefires upon which a blazing fire of Secwépemc National unity will be built.

Honouring and standing up our Ķwséltkten is integral to the health and governance of our Secwépemc Nation. Xyemstém xwexwéyt re k’wséltkten-kt ell xwexwéyt re k’wseltktnéws-kt tek stet’e7ék te skwelk’welt wel m-t’7ek te cseksek’éwt ne sxuxwiýúlecwems nSecwépemcúl’ecw (Respecting all our families from the highest peaks and valleys within our ancestral and traditional territories). The seasonal gatherings have been created to build a culturally respectful and safe space to share the priceless knowledge held in families. We know that through the sharing of knowledge we will ensure that, “All our Secwépemc relatives will take care of the land in perpetuity and pass it on to future generations.” Xwexwéyt re k’wseltktnéws te Secwépemc me7 tsyecwemínt.s re tmicw wel me7 yews, Tsyecwemíct.s k stet’e7ék te se7wít tek Secwépemc.

We welcome xwexwéyt re kw’séltkten (All My Relations) in recognition of Pelltetéqem (crossing over month) as we gather to share our stories and knowledge before entering our homes for winter.

Kukwstsétsemc,

Sunny LeBourdais
Director of Governance,

| Time | Activity | Location |
|----------------------|--|---|
| 10:00 am to 12:00 pm | SECWÉPEMC LAWS OF GOVERNANCE - KWSÉLTKTEN (CITIZENSHIP) ILRU FOCUS GROUP INFORMATION SESSION The SNTC is partnering with ILRU in 2017-2018 to research Secwépemc understandings of citizenship, such as how citizenship informs the legal relationships between, and the legal expectations and obligations of, individuals and collectives in the Secwépemc legal tradition. This work includes exploring how citizenship, belonging, and standing are defined in Secwépemctsin, as well as how historical and contemporary Secwépemc legal institutions may be reconciled through the lens of these core concepts. This project is intended to help inform how laws of citizenship are engaged in the work of revitalizing decision-making and governance for the Secwépemc Nation. | SNTC Conference Room |
| 10:00 am to 4:00 pm | TRADITIONAL WELLNESS STEERING COMMITTEE The Secwépemc Health Caucus is the voice for the health our people and is represented by the 16 chiefs and 12 health directors of our participating communities. Pavillion has chosen to be a part of the Northern Statimc Nations health as they access the same services in their area. Included in the Secwépemc Health Caucus is Traditional Wellness initiative. Traditional Secwépemc Wellness has always been used and we would like to include it to be a strong partner to the present health care system. Our ceremonies, rights of passage, medicines, traditional foods and food security are what we look at when it comes to Traditional Secwépemc Wellness. The (TWSC) Traditional Wellness Steering Committee was created to guide and provide knowledge for our Traditional wellness of the Secwépemc. Our (16) participating communities are represented by (1) knowledge keeper per community. This is created to support the great work each community is doing but to also look at wellness from a nation perspective. David Archie from Stswecemc/ Xgatterem and Rhona Bowe from Esketemc and residing in Adams Lake are the Traditional Wellness workers who are supporting this work. Everyone welcome. | All Nations Trust Boardroom |
| 1:00 pm to 4:00 pm | SECWÉPEMC FISHERIES SCHOOL Sponsored by the Secwepemc Fisheries Commission, join Ed Jensen for a hands on learning experience casting rods and baiting hooks by the river! Everyone welcome.
