

We want to hear from you!

The First Nations Technology Council is an Indigenous-led not-for-profit working to ensure that Indigenous peoples have the tools, education and support to thrive in the digital age. We are mandated by Indigenous peoples in BC through the First Nations Leadership Council to advance digital and connected technologies.

Take our survey and tell us about your experience with technology, what skills training you're interested in, and what increased access to technology, jobs, and connectivity could do for your community!

Feedback from this survey will help advance Indigenous leadership in the tech and innovation sectors in BC and inform actionable provincial strategies to maximize opportunities for our peoples and communities.
